Brief description of the program:

In this age of digital revolution, students need to learn to use online platforms like gmail and google with all their features and allied services, as well as be aware of the cybersecurity issues. In digital literacy programme, students were trained regarding basic functions of sending an email, utility of spam, how to look up any particular email, how to scan and send a file etc. Next in line is an extensive course on various programming languages.

Outcome:

- Students benefitted hugely from this programme.
- They learnt to execute basic online activities like web surfing and sending emails properly. They learnt to write proper official email. Also they understood the important of a string gmail password, why this is confidential and how to make a password STRONG.
